ON CHRISTIANS AS KINGS AND PRIESTS

by Bishop Nikolai Velimirovic

The Lord Jesus desires to make all men like to Himself. As the Son of God, He desires that all men come to sonship of God. As King, He desires that all reign with Him. As priest, that all come to priesthood with Him. As almighty, that all share in His power. As immortal, that all partake of His immortality. As holy, that all partake of His holiness. As risen, that all be children of the Resurrection. This was the Lord's desire, and to this end He came down to earth, to separate us from the animals, to raise us up above animal life and to give us a worth above that of all visible creation – a worth such as Adam had in Paradise before the Fall.

Because of this, His loving and saving plan for mankind, the Lord was crucified by the Jewish elders – and from us Christians He has, up till this day, reaped times without number the thorns of ingratitude and incomprehension. We show ourselves ungrateful and uncomprehending whenever we debase or trample on His commandments. Every sinner plait a new crown of thorns with his sin, and places it on His holy head. How has He offended us, that we should do this to Him? When has He ever contemplated evil against us, that we should return Him evil? He descended to our foul hole, where we had become accustomed to living with snakes and scorpions, and drew us out to the heights, to light and purity in the Kingdom. He desires to make us kings and priests; but we spurn His outstretched, saving hand and go back to our hole with the snakes and the scorpions.

Oh, my brethren, this belittlement of Him and elevation of ourselves is more than enough! Let us take firm hold of His saving hand and follow behind Him. He desires our good. He does good to us. He suffered for our good. He is our only true and constant friend.

O Lord, to Thee be glory and praise for ever. Amen.
